FY20-FY21-Q1
What does DEI Mean?

Diversity is the representation of all our varied identities and differences (race, ethnicity, gender, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, tribe, caste, socio-economic status, thinking and communication styles, etc.), collectively and as individuals.

Equity seeks to ensure fair treatment, equality of opportunity, and fairness in access to information and resources for all.

Inclusion builds a culture of belonging by actively inviting the contribution and participation of all people.

Capacity Building - development of sustainable skills, resources, and organizational structures. Building capacity also includes fostering shared knowledge, leadership skills, and an ability to represent the interests of one’s peers.

Coalition Building - coalitions are “a union of people and organizations working to influence outcomes on a specific problem.” The motivation to create coalitions comes from the recognition that they can accomplish what each partner cannot accomplish alone.

In response to COVID-19

• As our most vulnerable communities face the COVID crisis, the need for our DEI Initiative is more than ever. The COVID-19 outbreak will likely disproportionately impact under represented communities in both their health and job security, compounding longstanding racial disparities in health and economic conditions.

• While comprehensive data about how the COVID-19 crisis is unfolding, data is not yet available, early data from some areas suggest groups of color are experiencing disproportionate health concerns. Many people of color and the LGTBQ Community, particularly youth, or of combined or different identifies are in need of extra support as the coronavirus crisis deepens. Through training of DEI initiatives, understanding that this crisis will effect communities differently; it is our responsibility to understand those differences and deliver content that is reflective of all communities.
How do we return from COVID-19

• How do we move the needle forward….how are we positioned to be part of solutions?

• This is the potential next phase of our DEI Initiatives…how do we connect with communities with an authentic voice that not only highlights issues, but can offer solutions, connections and resources.
Strategic Communications at RMPM

Organization-wide storytelling for impact and community building
A great message doesn’t say what’s already popular; a great message makes popular what needs to be said.

- Informed storytelling
- What tools do we need to engage communities (our future audiences)?
- What do communities need from us?
- Impact and outcomes
What does this look like?

• Unified storytelling, grounded in DEI principles
  Supporting storytelling across all teams and with partners, members and volunteers, as we move toward using broader, more inclusive language in all aspects of our work

• Connecting teams to build a more inclusive culture and learn from expertise in all areas of our organization
  Hosting a cross-departmental Communications Team meeting with leaders on several teams to co-create key messaging, cross promote key initiatives, and learn how to more efficiently manage our promotion and outreach efforts

• Creation of tools we can use to engage and reach out to more communities
  Toolkits, handbooks and other supportive tools we can draw from across teams to seamlessly integrate consistent stories in and strategies in all of our work.

• More to come…
